

Tarek Malak

Tarek Malak studied economics at the University of St. Gallen, Switzerland and worked at the investment bank Rothschild, first in Frankfurt am Main and later in London.

As a member of Rothschild's M&A team, he advised companies primarily in the TMT (telecom, media and technology), real estate, and retail and consumer goods sectors.

He later joined the restructuring team at Rothschild, where he mainly advised companies in the real estate, travel and leisure industry, and retail and consumer goods sectors.

Tarek Malak then worked as a portfolio manager at the investment company Tennor, where he was responsible for companies in the sports, media and entertainment, AdTech, MedTech, real estate, agricultural, energy, and shipbuilding sectors.

Tarek Malak is currently an independent investor based in Berlin.