

Vincent GRIMOND, a graduate of ESSEC business school, began his career with Indosuez. He went on to become CFO of the Club Med and Cap Gemini groups, before joining the Canal+ group in 1996 as Managing Director to create the production/distribution division, StudioCanal. Following the Canal+/Universal merger, he joined Universal Studios in Los Angeles as General Manager. In 2003, he co-founded Wild Bunch, which went on to become one of Europe's leading film production and distribution companies, and of which he will remain Chairman until 2021. In 2022, he founded and chaired Anthéma, an investment and strategy consulting firm. He sits on the boards of Xilam and Attitude Resorts in Mauritius.